PC

I am the student

I come to etch in my book of life marks
from the experience called college

I come to print on the leaves of this book the pulse of the experience called Davidson

I come to wither, die, decay—
to change
from the young boy to the old.

I am the student

I am the freshman.

I bring to Fall

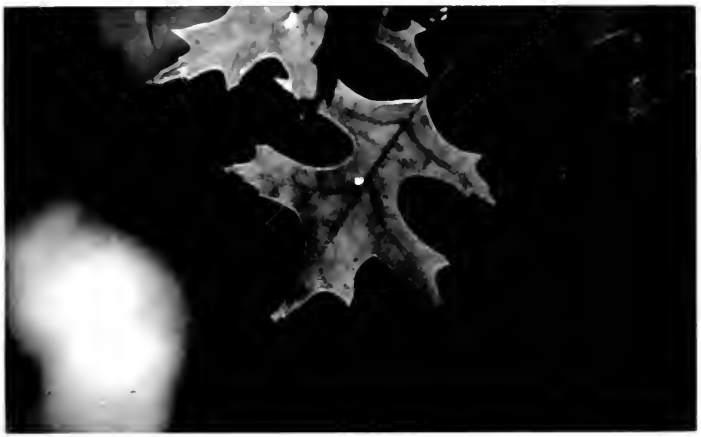
glittering leaves

of childhood dreams,

leaves lined with hopes, beliefs,

green gods

from summers gone.



I offer to Fall

these greenbreathing leaves

of summer dreams,

leaves of my present to die, to turn

to brownscarletyellow

leaves of my past

And now . .

I am the sophomore.

I offer Winter
decaying leaves
of dying dreams,
leaves that absurdly drift from the bleaksky,
rotting hopes trampled in snow.

I grope in Winter

with little hope

of finding life

in books, but I KNOW as sure

as god is dead

the snow is white.

And now . . .

I am the junior.

And just as sure
as snow is white,
god is dead . . .
I know, but snow seems gray, and so there may be hope of finding hope.

Winter give a glass front
to frozen ground
hung beneath a gutless gravity but oneday I remember Spring

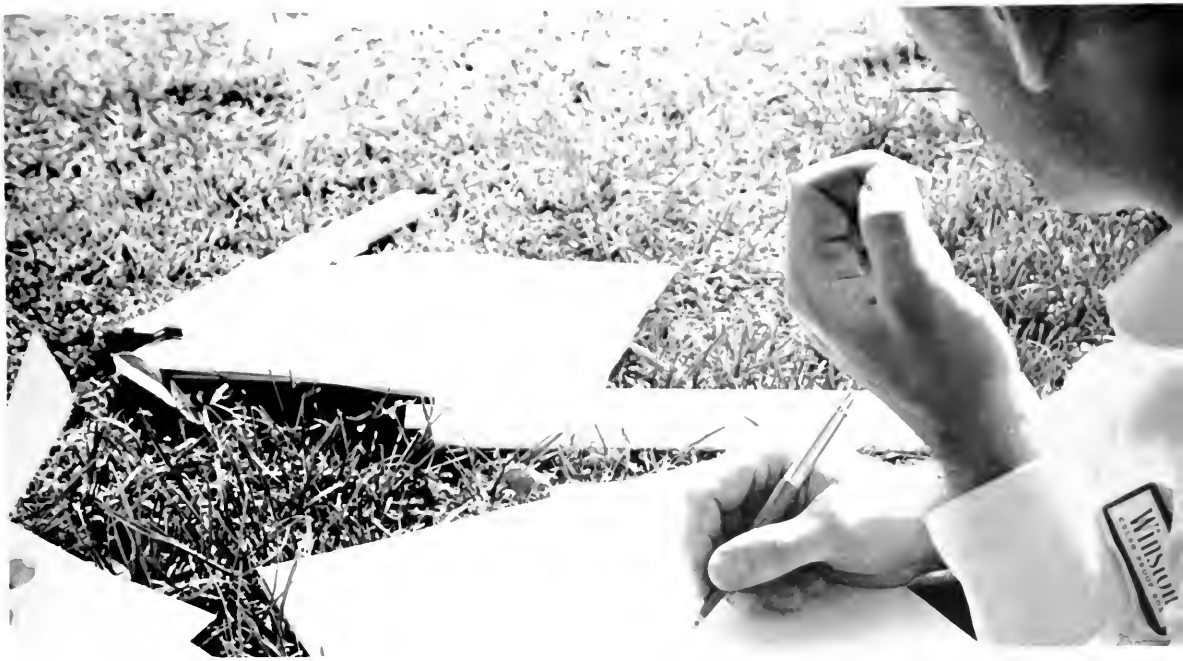
And now



I am the senior.

And to the whispering, warm,

soft rain

of once-remembered

Spring I bring past frozen earth,

sterile snow,

withered leaves.

But through the dust

of dead gods

rain-washed

I see a bud of summer life,

of green life

to come,

and running

forward into god knows where

(is god?)

I glance behind to wonder why

I come this way . .

and I forget.

And Now

I am the graduote,

and I remember

I am the student.
And through the leaves
of this experience
I walk.

I walk
upon the dying leaves of fall
that dapple once-green grass.
I stop to stand

. . . silently looking, hearing
. . . softly smelling, sensing
through the leaves
the noiseless
death
of summer.

Fall

PC

Pausing,

I

momentarily

cry

at the parting of past

from present . . .

and then, forgetting,

continue to walk.

On the black of rain-shiny asphalt walks

I walk

and feel the rain of newthoughts

puddled about me

seep into my shoes

to cool the soles that will rot

before my walk ends.

Up the concrete steps
I climb
in blind hope that this weekend
will pulse into my life
the sensate fullness that other weekends never bring

And in the silent, aching
death of Sunday afternoon,
I remember Homer whispering
in the lonely brilliance of windy-autumn sun

as the generation of leaves
so is that of man . . .

NOVEMBER 22

And I see this thought clouding the numb faces of disbelieving students who stumble mutely
across the campus,
recoiling
from a premature slap
of reality.

I hear, and my body trembles,
my lips quiver at the sound;
rottenness enters into my bones,
my steps totter beneath me.

. . . I am alone with the beating of my heart . . .
LUCAN

We must begin someplace, so one day in bright September
we smilingly
snap
the umbilical cord,
wince,
and find ourselves
adrift in a new chaos,
not quite so familiar
as the chaos we once knew.
Thus begins our change,
our own, unique Davidson Experience.

Swept into the college machine
we face smiling faces that like brass
tarnish into indifference
at the first week's end.
Children in a room of toys,
we are too absorbed in playing the game
to ask who we are;
whirling through short weeks
and shorter weekends,
we dumbly watch
last year's values, hopes ebb away
beneath the tides of learning,
only sometimes remembering to reach out
for the security
of new values.
It has not yet occurred to us
to reach within ourselves.

To you we give all curses . . . and all thanks. To you we give disappointments and, hopefully, satisfaction. To you we turn with each year's reinforcements as a never-ending stream of leeches persistently draining your life-blood.

Whether or not the benefits of this dialogue merit the sacrifice is something you alone can answer. Many of us don't care; many of us do. But all of us, in some silent moment, realize that beneath the icing of your pretentious verbiage is a human mind, a mind that is—insofar as it is human—both faulty and, more important, of infinite value.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

We are about to address to you words of surpassing gravity.

—THE KORAN

From our dialogue we have learned that the pursuit of knowledge is an endless race against time. We have also learned that knowledge, unless it is used, is as empty as the midnight post office; but when it is used, and used effectively, it can bring man part of that peace of mind which is a foretaste of fulfillment.

. . . the mind is restless, turbulent, strong and unyielding . . . as difficult to subdue as the wind.

FRATERNITIES

It was the best of times,
it was the worst of times,
it was the age of wisdom,
it was the age of foolishness, . . .
it was the spring of hope,
it was the winter of despair. . . .

—CHARLES DICKENS

I am the pledge who walks a Saturday path, crossing the road into a sea of faces; I am the pledge who like a dawn swimmer becomes engulfed by the frenzied wave of brotherhood that quickly ebbs, leaving me solitary. And as the sophomore, unable to stand alone upon the beach, I run to find security in this turbulent sea, to join the wet coolness of this chosen life. Then, I am the junior, who reaching out to catch the essence of the word brotherhood, finds it quickly run through my fingers onto the sand. And I am the senior, walking away from the beach.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

President Haynes Kelly

Davidson's Interfraternity Council functions to organize and coordinate fraternity activities. In addition to overseeing Rush Week, this year's I.F.C. brought to campus The Chad Mitchell Trio, Josh White, Count Basie, The Shirelles, Oscar Brown, and The Brandywine Singers.

The wayfarer,

Perceiving the pathway to truth,

Was struck with astonishment.

It was thickly grown with weeds.

"Ha," he said,

"I see that none has passed here

In a long time."

Later he saw that each weed

Was a singular knife.

"Well," he mumbled at last,

"Doubtless there are other roads."

—Stephen Crane

Winter

I am the student.
And in this absurd attempt to find truth
I walk,
armed with the scythe
of skepticism.

Beneath the bleak canopy of graysky
stretched between me and reality,
I walk
to and from the stale, dimly-lit
rooms and thoughts
in which I have learned to live.

In rainmisty depression
I quietly begin to hew my niche
in this red-brick world
of routine.
I walk emersed
in self-concern to compensate for indifference in others,
self-consciously passing blank faces
on now-familiar paths.

The daily ring of chimes
above an empty church
punctuates
my thoughts

as they watch
footprints in snow,
as they breathe
foggy rain, as they peer
from tiny window-panes.

And in the bleak breath
of wind wrapped around me
I shudder
at the cold
that hangs in my mind

SOPHOMORES

Our dried voices, when We whisper together
Are quiet and meaningless
As wind in dry grass
Or rats' feet over broken glass
In our dry cellar.

—T. S. ELIOT

I return to live my second year In the early evenings of the first weeks, I become aware of a new status I become an upperclassman

Before, I wandered unsure among the paste-board faces that move to and from class Today, the face is mine.

But in the silent afternoons, I stare at page upon page of black print I feel dust settle in layers upon the crumbling trestle of values that made meaningful last year's life As more of the past dies, I half-consciously shudder . . . and continue to read.

RICHARDSON SCHOLARS

Alan Arthurs

To enter any of the strange worlds of man's culture is to become a new person. It is to have our understanding dyed in a new color.

Each year twelve students are dyed by the Davidson Experience. Each year twelve new faces punctuate the uniformity of student society. Each year twelve men are accepted by some, ignored by others.

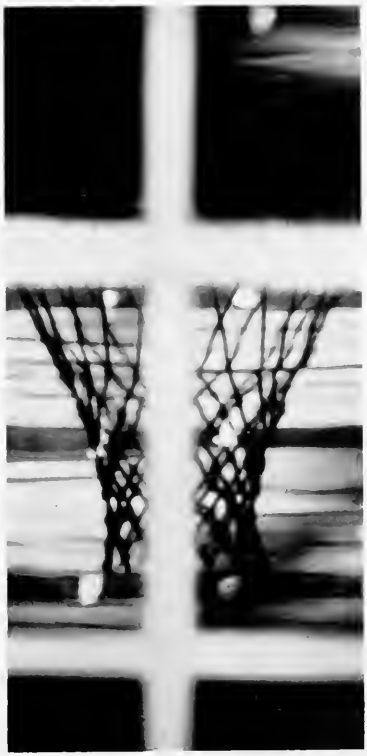
ATHLETICS

The body is the servant of the mind.



Once upon a time, not many thoughts ago, the Greeks dissected man . . . into mind and body. Today, not many mistakes after, man stands together . . . body and mind.

Once upon a time, Plato to the controry, Spartans trained the body as well as the mind. Today, academics to the contrary, we renew the effort to glue together flesh and thought, to recognize that the proper functioning of mind depends on the proper functioning of body.

DAVIDSON ATHLETICS 1963-1964

One fall night on the turf of the football field began the athletic year of 1963-1964. It was a year spotted with both success and sorrow. It was a year that saw a talented football team leave its talent untapped. It was a year of sweeping success in soccer, where new records, both team and individual, were set. It was a strong year for cross-country, an unfortunate year for wrestling. In basketball, it was the year of years (until next year) where the path was beaten to the top of the conference and almost . . . .

Dr. Tom Scott, Director of Athletics.

And for swimming and track it was a strong year, and for baseball, tennis, and golf it was a year of hope. For a few there came distinction. Tommy Heffner was chosen for the All-Conference cross-country team. Fred Hetzel joined the All-American basketball team and was picked the most valuable player at the Southern Conference Tournament. Terry Holland joined the Daily News All-State basketball team. Fred Schoen set a new season scoring record in soccer of thirteen goals for one man, and Jim Stokes wrote new swimming records. All in all then, it was a year to be remembered; but all in all, it was a year of promise—for next year.

To those who play the game come many rewards. But to those who represent the college, and to him who trains these representatives, adequate appreciation can never be expressed.

FOOTBALL

Coach Bill Dole

A doleful football season has become a tradition. This season was no exception. The loss to Furman shattered pre-season hopes and, after this, morale grew limp. Complaints of inadequate training—both in and out of season—indicate a possible reason why the most fatal plays in the Davidson repertoire became the fumble and the intercepted pass. The vicious circle of student apathy and team defeatism contributed to a quiet frustration both in the stands and on the bench. Some traditions should be shattered.

DAVIDSON 0 FURMAN 17

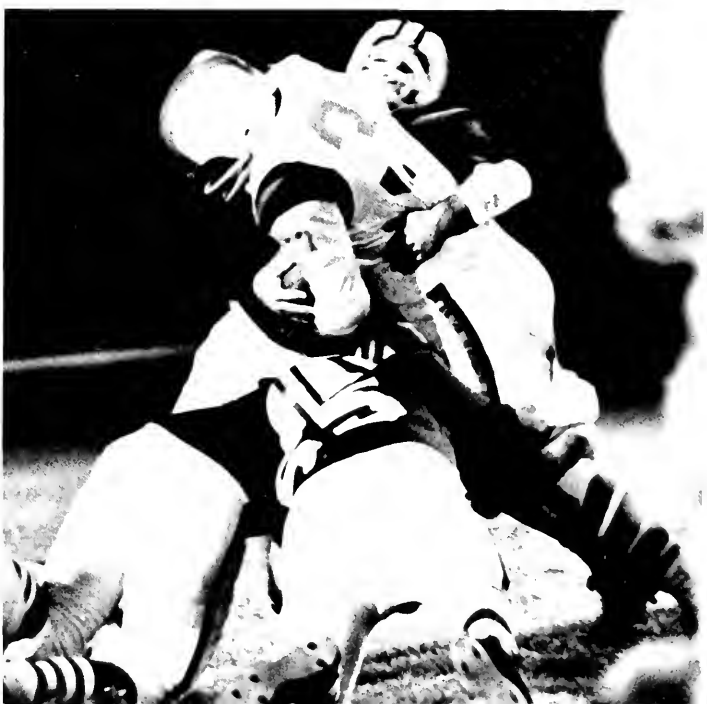
The season began in misfortune An intercepted pass and three fumbles were snatched by the Paladins in their drive to the goal A touchdown, trimmed with an extra point, plus a field goal left Furman with ten points to our zero at the half. In the fourth quarter Furman, recovering a fumble on their own forty-one, drove to the Davidson twenty-five. Here they prepared for another field goal attempt. When the play began, however, Furman passed and carried their assault to the 10-yard line. Within a few plays the score was 17-0. The Wildcats' final drive was lost in a fumble on Furman's 22.

In spite of this defeat, Coach Dole's hopes were high. Although our pass defense appeared weak, Russ Walls and Morris Williams assisted greatly in containing Furman's ground attack. Jim Fuller's 36-yard average for punting was promising Earl Cole's passing and Billy Mills' receiving gave much hope for future victories.

DAVIDSON 14 CATAWBA 18

This hope was not quick to materialize, however. In spite of the encouraging results of the first thirty-nine minutes, the Wildcats were unable to override Catawba By the end of the first quarter, Davidson had pushed to the Indians' one-yard line. It was the fourth down. Rather than attempt a touchdown, Coach Dole elected to kick. The field goal attempt was blocked, however, and Gomez of Catawba snatched the loose ball to run 98 yards for a touchdown

Davidson runner comes to an unceremonious halt



Despite this misfortune the Wildcats pushed forward. Benny Coxton and Earl Cole aggressively navigated the team up field with both ground and air attacks. In the third quarter Pat Fisher scored a TD and Bill Dole, Jr., rung up an extra point to make the score 7-6. Again the Fisher-Dole combination slapped another seven points to the score. With this 14-6 advantage the Wildcats faltered, falling down on pass defense to allow Catawba two more fatal touchdowns during the final twenty-one minutes of the game.

DAVIDSON 6 CITADEL 28

Unable to escape misfortune, Davidson returned home to bow to Citadel. The South Carolinians pulled fourteen of their points from a pass interception and a Davidson fumble. However, their total drive of 308 yards demonstrated Citadel superiority.

The one bright spark for rain-soaked fans was Sid Tompkins' touchdown. In the fourth period Tompkins intercepted a Bulldog pass and dashed sixty-one yards for Davidson's only score.

The Davidson defensive unit surrounds P.C. scatback as he circles the end.

Earl Cole, senior quarterback, attempts to gain yardage against a stubborn Catawba line.

DAVIDSON 10 V.M.I. 10

The bright spark of our Citadel game was fanned into a warm contest against V.M.I. Although the first half was one of defense, Davidson slipped a field goal past the scoreless Keydets. Early in the second half Davidson snatched a fumble from V.M.I. which opened the way for Lyle Blalock to score. The closing minutes of the third quarter saw the Keydets, conference champions, finally score, but it was only in the last five minutes of the game that V.M.I. was able to tie up the game.

Center Britt Smith charges into Lehigh line after snapping ball to QB Earl Cole.

DAVIDSON 13 RICHMOND 21

After giving V.M.I. such a spirited game, the Wildcats faltered against Richmond. However, there were significant bright spots in the game, especially Davidson's passing attack. Earl Cole led an air assault that gained for us 110 yards. Cole's defensive playing was also notable. Intercepting a pass on the Wildcat 10, he ran eighty yards before being stopped.

DAVIDSON 14 P.C. 14

Homecoming and beautiful weather set the stage for a spirited game with P.C. The star was Benny Coxton, who returned a P.C. punt ninety yards for the Wildcats' first touchdown. Coxton had been converted from quarterback to running back and was contributing much from this new position.

During the Wildcats' final drive for the goal, misfortune again struck home. Billy Mills, receiving a pass on the P.C. 30 from Earl Cole, was ruled out of bounds. A player's criticism caused the official to call a personal foul against Davidson which further penalized the team. (After the game the official apologized for his mistaken call which was clearly revealed in the game films.)

Davidson tackler sounds taps for V.M.I. runner.

The rains and the Citadel came the same day.

DAVIDSON 7 LEHIGH 3

In the face of victory, misfortune still played with the Wildcats. During the first half, four Davidson offenses were halted by bobbles. A drive to the Lehigh 20 ended in a fumble which began Lehigh's drive for a field goal. Other Wildcot advances were halted by fumbles at the Lehigh 25 and 38. The fourth frustration came from an intercepted pass towards the end of the first half.

During the second half, however, Davidson never fumbled. Rather, Dave Sprinkle captured a Lehigh fumble and began the drive to Pack Hindsley's touchdown.

DAVIDSON 5 W & M 34

The victory over Lehigh was followed by disaster. In spite of a field goal by Bill Dole, Jr , and a safety by Steve Davidson the Indians rolled home in the last three quarters for five touchdowns. The season ended in the defeat with which it began.

With an able crop of foreign students and an intense team spirit, our Fogle-men turned in an impressive score-card at the season's end. Our 9-1 record was one of the best in Davidson soccer history. Three players broke the existing school record for the number of goals scored in a season. Fred Schoen scored thirteen, four more than his last year's record, and Jan Brokel and Walt Eckman each scored eleven. Other outstanding players for the season were Mike Nemir, Lyman Dillon, Ben Nzengu, Tarby Bryont, and Alan Arthurs.

Harriers Blakeslee, Bunch, Beswick, Barrow, Little, Phillips, Heffner, and Reese

CROSS COUNTRY

Coach Heath Whittle and Captain Reese.

As Davidson's harriers, splottered with mud, sat down to rest after the season's many miles, they could look back to a commendable record. Ending the year with a tally of 5-3, they had placed fifth at the State meet and fourth at the Southern Conference meet. Tommy Heffner, chosen for the All-Conference team, led the harriers through the season, but it was the depth of the team that determined our success. Since no runners are graduating and two capable freshmen will graduate onto the team, next year offers even more hope for success.

WRESTLING

Coach Parker and Captain Mill

A hopeful year turned into disappointment. Coach Parker, expecting a strong squad of six seniors, found that injuries and mid-term graduations cut his effective senior strength down to two. However, the squad picked up strongly at the end of the season, winning three out of the last four matches and coming in fifth in the conference tournament. Next year's team will feel the loss of Mills, Pridgen, Walls, and Glasgow. However, the team should be much stronger with the addition of four or five good freshmen and transfer, Bobby Howard.

BASKETBALL

It was a refuge away from books to perch on either side of the court in uncomfortable bleachers. The waxed floor glistened as if from the sweat that players sweat, and we squirmed, waiting. Then eleven men bobbed, single-file, through the doors and onto the gym floor. Within minutes, another game had begun.

Coach Charles "Lefty" Driesell, Southern Conference Coach of the Year, led us to national basketball prominence.

As we sat through these experiences, we became identified with those who played, we became aware that we are a community. When we went home for Christmas, we remembered among our high school friends that, here, we are a community. And when we drove the twenty long miles back from Charlotte, we thanked—to ourselves—those who had made us, if only for a season, a whole community.

All-American Fred Hetzel relaxes after another inspired effort.

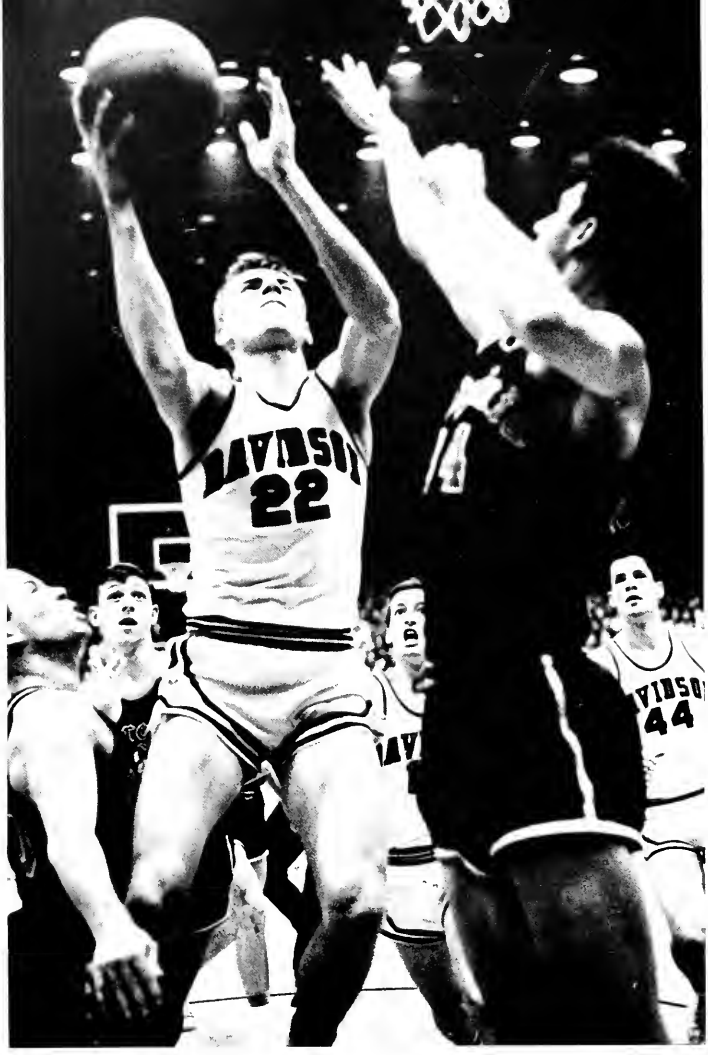
As the clock marked the irrevocable loss of another second and yet another, the ball paused as it rolled around the rim and dropped off to the floor, crushing to a close Davidson's brilliant basketball season. But this season was to be remembered, not by its losses, but by its victories. It was a season of bitter disappointment, but of greater satisfaction. It was a season during which eleven men splashed the name of Davidson across the nation.

On November 30, 1963, at 8:00 p.m., the tap-off in Johnson Gymnasium marked the beginning of the climb up the shaky ladder of national rankings. Hampden-Sydney was the first rung. The game seemed to be a warm-up. Turning to Wake Forest, the warm-up continued—that is, until the last six minutes. Weighted down by the Wildcats' pressure defense, Wake Forest succumbed. Fred Hetzel broke the game open in a scoring surge that would characterize many future victories.

Next was St. Joseph's. Again, the game was close, again, a last quarter surge spelled victory! At Ohio State, the game was never close, an "insultingly easy win" broke Ohio State's record of fifty straight victories on their home court. Gathering momentum, the team's full court press and Fred Hetzel's forty points swamped Jacksonville.

On December 18, Davidson was ranked tenth in the nation.



In typical Davidson fashion, Don lays one in against Virginia.

Meeting Furman with a full court press and a fast break, Davidson won by twenty-six points and captured the national lead in foul shooting and field goal accuracy. Sagging slightly in the first half of the East Carolina game, another second half deluge of scoring spelled another victory.

On December 24, Davidson, with seven victories, was ranked seventh in the nation.

In the Charlotte Invitational Tournament both Pennsylvania and Princeton fell to the Cats. Barry Teague stole the ball three times in a row to break open the Penn game. Hetzel and Snyder led the scoring attack against Princeton. Under this momentum West Virginia bowed to the Cats. Once again the game was decided by scoring superiority in the second half.

On January 7, Davidson was ranked fifth in the nation

Then the first hint of trouble came. V M I fortified their goal with a tight zone. This defense produced Davidson mistakes that allowed V.M.I. to stay within victory range until the closing minutes of the game.

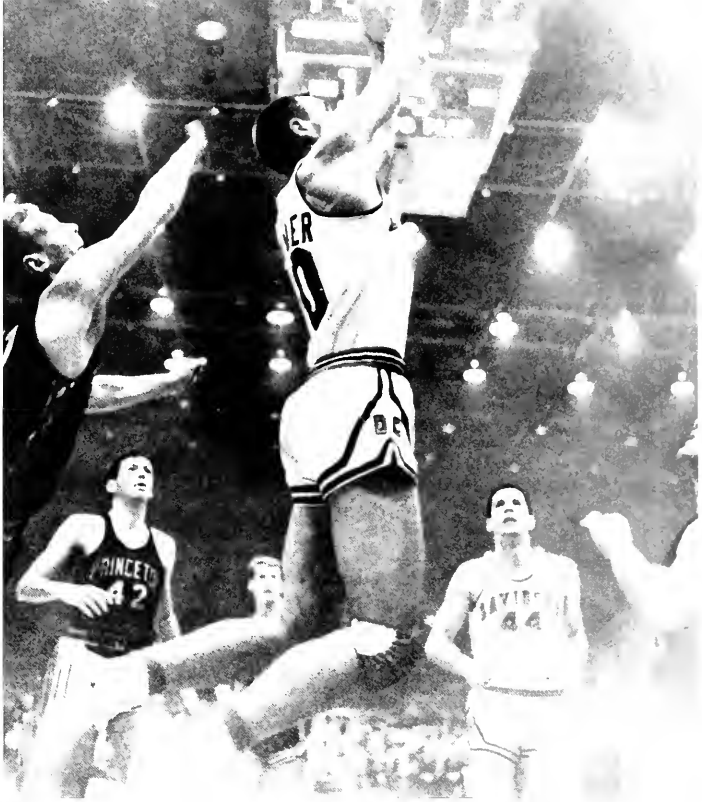
The fast break chilled into ice-cold hours freeze when the Cats journeyed to Richmond. Trailing at the half for the first time this season, Davidson froze the ball for the final thirteen minutes eleven seconds of the game never attempting a field goal. After squeaking by Richmond by three points, Davidson, now fourth ranked, rolled over Wofford for its fifteenth consecutive victory.

But the [illegible] were [illegible] matched. The [illegible] at the [illegible] West Virginia [illegible] when [illegible] 73-73, but [illegible] tending collapse the [illegible] two point [illegible] ing from this first defeat [illegible] son, the Cats smashed [illegible] ting a school record [illegible] for any one game.

The pressure of national ranking mounted. Virginia followed V.M.I. with another tight zone defense. It was the eleventh-hour efforts of Teague and Marcon that snatched a victory by the slim margin of two points. Citadel's zone defense was penetrated, however, by a fast break that forced the Bulldogs into a man-for-man defense.

Ohioan Snyder demonstrates exceptional ability in upset victory over Ohio State before home-town crowd.

Captain Terry Holland follows up a shot in victory effort against St. Joseph.



All-Americans Fred Hetzel and Bill Bradley look on as Dick Snyder lays one up for Davidson against Princeton in Charlotte Invitational Tournament win, 102-68.

Then a pressing defense and a good fast break brought home successive victories from William and Mary, Georgia Southern, and Richmond. The team was again ranked fourth in the nation.

And then the rains came. At Greenville, a tight team bowed to Furman. At Duke, where we were graciously given the 200 worst seats, the team had revived, but not enough to withstand Duke's pressure defense; the game was lost at the foul line. A sixty-point win over East Carolina and a victory over Citadel ended the regular season.

Elusive Barry Teague finds opening through furious St. Joseph's zone defense.

Don Davidson battles West Virginia defenders with fingertip control

In the Southern Conference Tournament, Davidson's fast breaks and good rebounding brought defeat to Citadel. The end came in the second round, against an inspired V.M.I. team. Down one point with eleven seconds to play, Davidson waited for the one sure shot. As the clock marked the irrevocable loss of another second and yet another, the ball paused as it rolled around the rim . . . and dropped off to the floor . . . .

But the season will be remembered, not for this shot, but for the many others—the shots that carried us to national ranking. These are the shots we shall remember.

The learning process never complete, Coach Driesell points out Wildcat error to a tired Don Davidson.

Coach Shoe's swimmers climbed out of the water this year with a creditable 4-7-1 record. Jim Stokes, who set several records this season, and Jim Grey and Bud Fry, "two of the best captains we've ever had," aided greatly in achieving this record in the face of very stiff competition. Another tough season lies ahead, but all varsity swimmers except Fry will return. In addition, o strong freshman team is ready to graduate into varsity competition. The hopes for next year are high.

Captain Campbell and Sergeant Newby coaches look over the score of a recent match

Jim Black and Jim Kopp led the riflemen through this year's heavy schedule. Throughout the season Black and Kopp were supported by the ever consistent shooting of team captain Dick Forrester, the team's only senior. With all but one varsity rifleman returning next year, Captain Donald Campbell looks for a good season. Kopp should be one of the outstanding conference shooters, and some good freshmen may bring more depth to the team.

TRACK

Davidson's cindermen look forward to a bright season this year, a season whose record may even better last year's 7-2. Coach Whittle has very high hopes especially for Alan Turner, who comes onto the cinders after a successful winter season on the boards of indoor track. Turner, a junior, may well become the conference champion in the 100-yard dash. Also, Captain Billy Mills is expected to do well in the pole vault, and our distance men—especially in the mile—will contribute depth to the team's effort. With this team, this year should be a bright one, indeed.

BASEBALL

This year's team holds ten returning lettermen, captained by Eddie Earle. Rick Smyre will be a strong shortstop, but there is still a need for depth at second and third.

Southern Conference baseball competition differs from other sports, such as basketball, in that we play every other conference team twice. Then, the regular season champions will enter the Eastern Regionals. This year, however, the highlight of the season will be a six-day trip to Winter Park where we play a round-robin with Duke, Colby, and Rollins.

TENNIS

Cleveland prepares to smash a serve to his opponent across the net

Plagued last year with injuries, Davidson's netmen were able to finish only fifth in the conference. Injuries to top players caused us to lose several matches by default. However, this year should be the "last of the lean years." Five of the eight varsity players will be drawn from last year's freshmen: Council, Cleveland, Hurd, Frank, and Meschan. With this strength come the prospects of Davidson's becoming a good tennis school once aagin.

From last year's team, which finished second in the conference tournament, four lettermen have graduated, four have returned. This year's season includes a four-way match with George Washington, Furman, and Citadel. In addition, the Wildcats will meet UNC, NC State, Duke, and Wake Forest. Coach Scott, hoping for another successful season, looks to last year's freshmen for new strength on the team.

If I did not work,

—BHAGAVAD GITA

Between the death of winter and the birth of spring I live.

I live a year of decision and begin at last to cut the web of empty ritual draped over last year's life. Seeing but the glimmer of a purpose, I plunge into the midstream of this college experience.

On dark nights when the library blinks its eyes before closing, I work . . . one thought on grades and another on next year's elections. And in so living, I begin to accept myself . . . and forget to be insecure.

I am what I do. And as I attempt to squeeze meaning from these four, short years, my life becomes defined by activities.

ACTIVITIES

God's causes are never destroyed by being blown up, but by being sat upon.

—GEORGE ADAM SMITH

In this interaction of personality and behavior, I come to realize that for each of us this experience is unique. To each of us is presented a different mosaic of thoughts and people. For each of us there is a unique challenge to be answered . . . or ignored.

And sometimes, sitting half-asleep in Chapel, I realize that those who do nothing are . . . undefined.

STUDENT COUNCIL

President John Spratt

Our successes and failures are tallied in our minutes. They tell of revisions in the election system, of salvaging NSA from extinction, even of inducing changes in the coming year's schedule.

Yet the more important part is untold, written between the lines—the frustration of being Davidson's representative self-government, of being the discipliner of one thousand diverse voices. It is a formidable job, and somewhere in the riots and waterfights and countless ad hocs, the creative approach is lost. Somehow, amid disappointments and distractions, the spring promises become more and more difficult to fulfill.

Our community is a community of trust. It presupposes honesty in all who enter, in all who graduate. The books on the Union steps, the open doors on the hall testify to the silent presence of this trust.

We twelve must preserve this trust. It is our duty to define, with the lives of others, the meaning of the word "honor," to exercise the greatest power given to any students, to exercise the loneliest power given to any students.

Freshman Advisor Tom Stafford

QUIPS AND CRANKS

With the eyes of the camera we gaze at flesh, at blood—wet or drying, at tendons and muscles that make up the throbbing fabric of our Davidson Experience. In the silent darkroom of the mind we press our myriad images into flat sheets of glossy black and white. With ink—wet or drying—we scratch onto flat paper tiny marks, forcing the flesh of experience into verbal pigeonholes.

And somehow, for some reason, we blindly assume that after all of this we can capture even a speck of the meaning of Davidson life.

After the Wednesday chatter of typewriters over cups of midnight coffee, the Friday sheets of news print fall on each holl. And with these verbal flurries that drift into the changing winds of student thought come the news and editorial voices of campus critics. Sometimes the words fall empty, to be swept out by the Monday janitor. Sometimes the words slash deftly at seldom-mentioned cobwebs hanging in college closets.

Always the words are part of the duty of journalism, to inform the public.

And as we read these pages, we remember the tale we once heard . . . that above those who mold the thoughts of Page Two hangs the Sword of Damocles, swinging close to any writer crossing the ever-changing line between duty and irresponsibility. Perhaps this is a myth. Perhaps not.

SCRIPTS 'N PRANKS

Editor-in-Chief Hank Ackerman.

From a womb in the second floor of the Union, the Scripts 'n Pranks emerges two or three (or four) times a year (never five) to spit forth a spray of satirical, half-serious literature. This Falstaffian publication quietly slips among the quips bits of serious script that allow would-be Faulkners to see their writing on glossy rather than erasable-bond paper. In this small volume of twenty pages Davidson students mock the muses as they fling themselves verbally against the red brick walls that encircle The Gentleman's creativity. Ink spills, hair turns white, and the Cheshire cat smiles on. But is he smiling with or at us?

WILDCAT HANDBOOK

Traditionally, the Wildcat Handbook has been merely a catalogue of dry, but useful, information. This year, however, a refreshingly new precedent was set. Now, we can not only find the names of freshmen we want to blackball, or telephone numbers of girls' schools we want to visit, we can also find off-the-cuff appraisals of the community in which we live. In punctuating his publication with editorial comments, Editor Tim Kimrey has moved this booklet from the Sears & Roebuck to the Time category.

DEBATE TEAM

Mrs. Grace Lilly, Faculty Advisor

The stage is a small room. The audience, too, is small: a time-keeper and a judge. At one end stands a podium. It is flanked on each side by a table behind which sit two men, facing the podium over file boxes, books, and magazines. And then, one of these four men rises, walks to the podium, and begins the sixty-minute drama of wits.

In this drama, where the script is composed ad libitum and the conclusion is written on the judge's ballot, each actor squeezes hours of research into verbal chisels that rain constantly on the small audience. For every thrust, there is a parry; for every parry a counter-thrust, for every counter-thrust . . . And finally, there is a judge's decision—sometimes just, sometimes absurd—and the play ends.

But, like a child eating an ice-cream cone, these actors know that the ending is irrelevant, that the true value of the drama lies in the act itself.

Y. M.

This year President Joe Howell enlisted with his enthusiasm the enthusiasm of a capable cabinet. From a traditional morass of irrelevance the "Y" emerged as an institution with an extensive impact on student thought, an institution alive and responsive to contemporary problems. As a catalyst for thought, the "Y" mixed the chemicals of student intellect with the mortar and pestle of articulate minds. The visit of Dr. Michael Scriven is the best example of this reaction. From Chapel at 10:20 till past midnight students clung tenaciously to the technical dialogue between atheism and theism.

The debate even pervaded the haven of non thought, the fraternity house.

In addition, other noted speakers moved in and out of student life, and the community projects continued.

We who graduate, we who have seen three years of "god squad" irrelevance cultivate the weeds of apathy, are thankful to have seen one year of meaningful Y.M.C.A. activity. We are thankful to have seen that Christian concern is not necessarily Presbyterian, is not necessarily narrow minded, is not necessarily meaningless.

"Sociable who?"

Chaplain Will Terry

Challenges to the Christian Faith. Dr. Michael Scriven and Dr. Earl MacCormac run the philosophical gamut of atheism and theism.

COLLEGE UNION

This hub of student life is a kaleidoscope of activities. The snack bar serves as a focal point from which spokes go out in all directions—to the T.V., to the movies, to the game room, to the book store, to the Y.M.C.A. and publications offices, to job and graduate school interviews. Revolving around these fundamental activities is a stream of guest speakers bringing to the college the multi-colored views of contemporary thought: the Peace Walkers, the filmed interview with Malcolm X, James Baldwin, and Martin Luther King, Dr. Annis of the A.M.A. In addition, the Union sponsors school parties during the year and regulates forums on contemporary issues. It is these activities, these speakers, these forums which constitute the essence of the College Union.

The Union is a playroom. It is a chess game, a pool table, a ping-pong ball. It is a cup of coffee, a coke for breakfast, a long talk between books. It is a magazine, a late show, a "flick." The Union is a playroom for those who have little time to play.

It is at the watches of the night that impressions are strongest and words most eloquent; in the day-time you are hard-pressed with work.

It is not necessary to have applause
It is enough to know you have done well

The Lamplighters, led by Harr. Causey, entertain with light, secular music

You do not know that you have done well until you have applause. When you sing for the 175th anniversary of the Synod of the Carolinas, when you sing for the anniversary of The National Radio Pulpit, then you have done well.

MALE CHORUS

WIND ENSEMBLE

Director Grier Williams

On an autumn Sunday afternoon, music rose from the front campus to announce the beginning of an amazingly active year for a little-appreciated group, the Wind Ensemble. The December concert featured violinist Mrs. David Richey and flutist Jim Weber. In January, the annual tour began, and the Ensemble swept from one end of the state to the other. After a March chamber music program, the year was closed by a series of Lawn Concerts.

BUSINESS-ECONOMICS ASSOCIATION

The Business-Economics Association is composed of upperclassmen interested in business and economics. Its purpose is to stimulate interaction between these students and the faculty members of the Economics and Business Departments. President Bill Cantey invited guest speakers to monthly meetings where members were informed of current economic developments.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

President Grier Stephenson, Faculty Advisor W. P. Minter, Vice-President Jim Brindell.

The International Relations Club has no formal membership. Rather, it serves as a forum, bringing interested students into a fuller awareness of the complexities of international life. In a community largely isolated from outside contacts, this forum presents formal and informal discussions, lectures and films in an effort to stimulate thought beyond the limits of our everyday concerns.

CONSERVATIVE CLUB

Vice President John Curry, Secretary Chip Tate, President Charlie Dibble

Founded in 1962 Davidson Conservative Club is designed to present to the community the basic conservative tenet—individual freedom coupled with individual responsibility—and the implications of this tenet. Attempting to play an educational rather than a political role the club this year brought such speakers to campus as W. D. Workman and Anthony Bouscaren.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Officers, First Row: Morrow, McMullen, McSween; Second Row: Hanes, Setzer, Stofford.

Alpha Phi Omega was founded at Davidson in 1962. Its purpose is to serve the student body, the faculty, the community, and the nation. Yearly projects include publishing a college directory, providing tours for visitors, and maintaining a daily infirmary service. This national service fraternity also worked at the Mooresville War Memorial and supervised a youth recreation program in Cornelius.

LINGLE MANOR

Officers: Doug Woodworth, Secretary, Bill DeVaughan, President, Jim Weber, Treasurer.

Believing in the worth of the individual, and believing that everyone should have the opportunity to express himself uniquely in a corporate body dedicated to the concepts of democratic brotherhood, mutual concern and respect, and the individual welfare and growth of each member, we do establish this the Constitution of Lingle Manor.

Davidson's new Department of Drama and Speech presented this year three major productions. The first was Oscar Wilde's comedy of triviality, The Importance of Being Earnest.

The Visit came second, a provocative drama written by the Swiss contemporary, Friedrich Duerrenmatt. The third production was Two Blind Mice, an American comedy by Samuel Spewack.

To be Earnest.

The policy of the department is to present to each student generation a well rounded program selected from significant theatrical literature past and present. Each production begins with tryouts, which are open to all members of the Davidson community. In addition to regular productions, the student-directed Vagabond Workshop Productions round out the theatrical program.

But when she came for the visit it was Clare, not Louise, who spoke

HONORARIES

Above all, I recognize my kinship with the average man. Tomorrow the world may be blown to pieces. In this threat that hangs over us there is a lesson of truth. Confronted with this future, hierarchy, titles, honors become again what they have always been: smoke that blows away.

—ALBERT CAMUS

In this chapter are the small gold keys, the superficial distinctions, which mark success from failure. But it is never to be forgotten that these distinctions of themselves are absurd, meaningless. It is the achieving, not the achievement, that is important; the running justifies the race, won or lost.

And so behind the smoke that blows away there lies another lesson. The depth of each experience here is determined by him who builds the fire, not by the wood offered for burning.

Perhaps the most respected campus honorary, North Carolina Gamma Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was established at Davidson in 1923. The golden key of Phi Beta Kappa symbolizes the scholastic excellence of those who play the role of student most successfully, of those who exploit to the fullest the intellectual development of the experience called college.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Omicron Delta Kappa honors and encourages outstanding leadership, character, and service in the academic community. Campus leaders —both students and faculty members—meet in this body to help crystallize college opinion on important issues and to help correlate ideas and interests for a better college.

SENIORS

"The time has come," the Walrus said, "to talk of many things: of shoes and ships and sealing wax, of cabbages and kings."

—LEWIS CARROLL

The year begins as all years begin

Fall winds pile on our banks the leaves of turbulent freshmen that are raked in and out of rush week parties. Faces are new; rooms are new; classes are new; life is old.

But as lectures prelude the inevitable rain of reviews, I remember that this is not a year like other years. I remember that I no longer live in the present, nor yet in the past, but in the future.

And once upon a day when the sun is shining, I open a book . . . , and suddenly remember all those words left unsaid in three years past and know that somehow, before the flowers of May arrive, they must be uttered.

I live now beneath the ceaseless flow of applications for jobs and graduate schools. I breathe an air tinged with anxiety. I wait for clean, white envelopes into which have been poured the small, black words that define my future.

I watch the faces of friends casting anxious glances toward the future, speaking of the present while thinking of the past. In the midst of these faces that have become a part of my own, I sit and hear the church chimes ring the clocklike death of this experience.

The year ends as no other year has ever ended. And now . . . I am the graduate.

And so I turn to go,

and in turning

remember . . .

I was the student.

And etched upon the remnants of my life will be the craggy lines
of this experience,
a skeleton
upon which to hang tomorrow.

In the shadows of my memory

sit quietly

those who sat beside me then,

those to whom I turned in this brief eon

to seek words of meaning,

to justify my quiet

heartbeat

And you

lady, through whose

profound and fragile

lips

the sweet small clumsy

feet of April came into the rugged meadow

of my soul,

I will remember your words.

And with your words

I will remember

pre-exam silence,

and curses

shrieking through warmnight air,

and bells

and sirens

and singing

and (most of all perhaps) laughter.

And I will remember

other words . . .

spoken words

that rained

upon the dust on desk tops . . .

written words

that lay limp

upon yellowed pages

splashed with ink . . .

Each

has cast its own small shadow

upon the furrows

of my mind.

During coming seasons that will blur the sharp colors
of the present into dull tones
of the past,
each of my words—
  each stroke of my pen,
  each snap of my typewriter,
  each syllable
  of my mind—
will bear
the faint birthmarks
of this experience.

And when I hear again
the steepled words
of this four years—
  words that pointed hopeful crosses
  at the darkness beyond—
I will remember
the stairwells of my soul
when the lights were off.

I will remember

words

spoken through the intoxication of night air

faces

sitting sleepily

in well-worn seats,

days

of books

voices thoughts noise and silence

I will remember

And so I turn to go,

and in turning

EDITOR'S EPILOGUE

Four years ago this spring a majority of the Davidson Class of '64 were graduating from high school. It was the termination of one phase of our life and the beginning of another. I remember quite vividly my own personal feelings the night after my graduation. A feeling of uncertainty bordering on fear characterized my state of mind. In the fall I would be entering Davidson College. What a formidable ring that name had. What would college be like? How would I do? What would I major in? Would I make friends? Would I like Davidson? These and many other questions plagued me that first night after high school graduation and indeed for the rest of that long summer.

Since that time four years have passed and the Class of '64 is ready to graduate again, but this time from college — Davidson College. During that time each of us has gone through what I have termed the Davidson Experience. For each of us this experience has been slightly different. But one thing is true for all of us: this experience will have an effect on each of us that will last for the rest of our lives.

For here during the past four years each of us has molded habits which will be with us forever. Some of us have learned to study. Some of us have become more mature. Some of us have been intellectually stimulated. However, when the members of the Class of '64 receive our diplomas in May, there will be in the hearts and minds of many of us, whether we admit it or not, pangs of remorse when we think back over how much Davidson offered and how little each of us took advantage of.

But these are reflections that will only grow in meaning and understanding as the years slip by. Let us examine more closely the impressions and the criticisms that we have formed over the past four years.

Looking back over these past four years there are several areas in which I believe the college could be improved so as to make even more valuable the Davidson Experience.

For many of us the past four years have been a constant struggle for grades and grades only. Perhaps this is a common fault characteristic of our entire educational system in the U. S. Nevertheless, the number of times that each of us has left a class and felt a deep and sincere intellectual stimulus that caused us to go to the library or caused us to go to our rooms and begin work on the Great American Novel—I say the number of these times has been revealingly small.

Is this lack of intellectual stimulus due to the student or the individual professor involved? Perhaps to a degree both are responsible. But every year we are told the freshman class is the best yet assembled. The responsibility of intellectually stimulating a student, I believe, is that of the professor. This does not only mean influencing the student to do outside work, but also influencing him to prepare diligently the material to be covered in class the next day. When the student knows a professor is not going to require any class participation, the chances of his preparing thoroughly are drastically reduced. Also when a professor seems only slightly stimulated by his own subject and intellectual endeavors, the chances of his igniting the spark of intellectual curiosity in his students are almost nil. Ideally, men of college age should have enough maturity and personal desire to prepare each day for classes. To believe that this is done is childish fantasy. For a person to work he must have a stimulus and in the classroom situation this stimulus must come from the professor. At Davidson more emphasis is placed on "droning," i e, memorizing, than on learning This is a sad commentary on a school striving for national educational prominence

One orea in which I believe the academic aspect of Davidson could definitely be improved so as to provide some of this intellectual stimulus we have been talking about would be the revamping of the so-called Honors Program that exists primarily in the catalogue. As it stands now a student must have at least a 2.25 overall average in his work prior to his junior year in order to be even considered for Honors work in addition to faculty approval.

I would suggest that the requirements be changed to that of requiring a 2.0 average and approval by the faculty in the department in which the student would be studying. A significant number of honors hopefuls are turned down, men who are very proficient in one field, but who have not maintained a 2.25 average due to difficulty in one particular course. I believe a man with a 2 0 average should be eligible to apply and should be accepted only after careful examination by the faculty in the department he would be studying in. Thus men with this outstanding proficiency would be able to follow their interests in a program of honors study that would indeed strengthen Davidson as an institution of higher learning

Another measure that would definitely strengthen Davidson is one that has been discussed many times already this year—the improvement of the library facilities. For a school with an enrollment of nearly a thousand students, we should have about three times as many books as we do. But quantity is not the answer. To improve not only the quantity, but especially the quality, each professor should use completely the money he is appropriated for books relative to his field. Students should be made more aware of the "Suggestion Box" and should be urged constantly by the librarians and professors to make use of it

But these measures would be only a beginning I would like to see Davidson College initiate a two year fund raising program for the express purpose of improving the library This program should be steered by a faculty committee working in conjunction with the Trustees and the college administrative officials Alumni should be made aware of this concerted effort and urged to participate. The reason behind this effort should be published and distributed by the Alumni Office to all alumni so as to indicate the condition of Davidson's library resources

These, then, are several measures that I believe would make more valuable the Davidson Experience for the students that are to follow us They are measures that I feel quite honestly would improve Davidson and move it a little closer to its stated goal of being the best college of its kind and size in the country.

In closing I would like to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to everyone that has made this book possible: to Wayne Smithers as Business Manager, to Marty Lafferty as Chief Photographer, to Skip Jones as Copy Writer, to the Section Editors Bob Renner, Mac McIver, Jim Graves, Zach Long, Arnie Snider, Phil Beidler, to Greg Haynes, Jim White, Ed Dwelle, and Brown McCallum all of whom aided the various Section Editors. As a result of the efforts of all these men and with the cooperation of the Student Body, the 1964 Quips and Cranks takes its place alongside the yearbooks of the past. We hope that in the future, if you happen to be thumbing through these pages, you will in some small way relive what we have called The Davidson Experience.

"The greatest athlete in the world"

That's what the King of Sweden called the first man ever to win both the pentathlon and the decathlon. It happened at the 1912 Olympics. The man's name? Jim Thorpe —one of the alltime greats of American amateur and professional sports, honored now in the new National Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Football's just not the game it was when Dad was yelling himself hoarse at "Big Jim's" open-field running. New rules have sharpened the action; equipment is lighter, stronger. The same holds true for the fans. Gone are the Hoover collars and the heavy fabrics. Now the accent is on lightness—easy-to-live-in styles, fabrics that combine good looks with wrinkle resistance and press retention. In other words, Stevens fabrics.

These advances by Stevens in fabric comfort, good looks and wear are based on constant research in fibers and fabric combined with the latest in manufacturing equipment. From one woolen mill in 1813, we now have 55 modern mills and 35,000 employees, turning out a fascinating variety of fabrics from cotton chinos to space age products. It's easy to see why fabrics from Stevens are used everywhere for apparel, for the home, for industry.

Free: Thorpe's Life Story & Picture

If you're interested in the amazing career of the half-Indian boy from Oklahoma who astounded the world with his athletic skill, Stevens has prepared a short biography of Jim Thorpe, plus a copy of the illustration in this ad suitable for framing. (The original of this picture is now on permanent display at the Pro Football Hall of Fame.) For the free biography and picture, write to: Sam Huff, J. P. All Your Cost-of-Living Items are Up . . . BUT ONE!

In the past 20 years alone, most cost-of-living items have just about doubled in price. . . .

Except for electricity, which has actually come down!

Fact! — Since 1943, the average cost of a kilowatt hour to Duke Power residential customers has dropped more than one-third. In that same period, the use of electricity has increased over 4 times, while the standard of living has gone up correspondingly.

It's truer today than ever — you live better, for less, electrically.
